Dedication
Bill B Day 1919 - 2013

Bill B. Day grew up in the Texas panhandle during the great depression. During World War I.I. he was an aircraft mechanic stationed in New Mexico due to his color blindness instead of being a pilot. If you ever met Bill Day, who lived not far away from Stephenville, Texas, a town known for its 2008 UFO flap that made national headlines, you wouldn't think he had any affiliation with UFOs, yet Bill Day would tell his grandchildren about some profound UFO experiences that occurred during his lifetime while sitting on the porch and recounting stories about the past where he encounter what defies the norm, what J. Allen Hynek would term high strangeness.

On one such occasion during his youth, while milking cows in the barn during the early morning hours, he thought the world was coming to an end when a giant fireball lit up the sky like daylight. It left a huge trail in the sky that remained there for some time. More profoundly, while in the Army Air Force in stationed in New Mexico he tells the story of lying down in the grass with his father and looking up in the sky where they both would see a triangular formation of UFOs go from horizon to horizon and then proceed to return and go back the other way flying at a high rate of speed. This was before the alleged Roswell UFO crash incident in 1947. His story is similar in some ways to the Lubbock Lights that would happen years later. Ironically, Bill Day attended Texas Tech University, where the Lubbock Lights incident took place.

On a more humorous note, Bill Day, who grew up during the golden age of radio, would listen to the famous Orson Wells radio broadcast "The War of the Worlds" and run into the mess hall when he was in the service to warn soldiers of an impending Martian invasion only to learn it was a spoof. Those moments that defied the accepted norm were strange times for Bill indeed, a person who did not watch much science fiction nor have a facination with flying saucers.

ACQUISITION

Stalking Prey (human subject). Abduction Site: Home, automobile, cabin, campsite. Example:UFO is Observed pacing car. Psychological control: A person is then instructed to drive off to a remote road.

Coordinated effort:
A group of aliens approach human subject. Leader stays aboard craft.

Acquisition, subdue:
Psychological control at close range: The abductee goes from feeling fear to calm when the aliens approach. A person in bed becomes conscious surrounded by aliens then feels paralysis or becomes unconscious again.

ABDUCTION

Actual Abduction, brought aboard craft:
A human subject is floated or levitated by a beam, carried or escorted to craft (ascent) by small group of aliens, or agrees to go with aliens under own control.

Onboard Craft
The human subject taken down a long winding hallway to dome room or curved wall room that fits the shape of a domed saucer. Then stripped naked. Sometimes other human subjets are observed. Undergoes a proceedures.

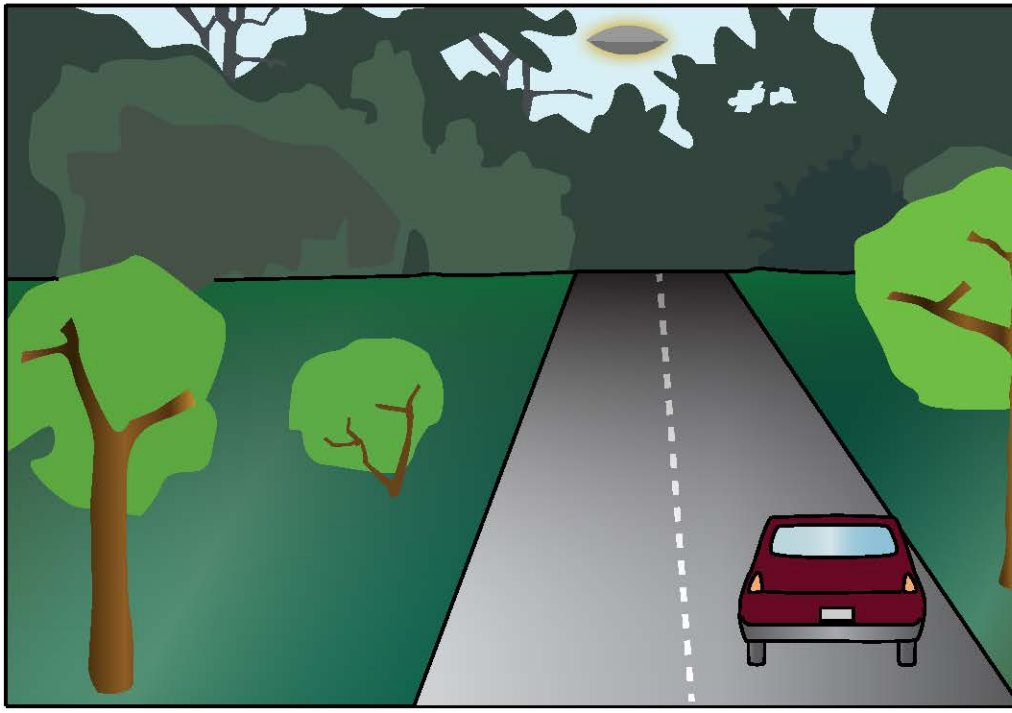
Proceedures Onboard Craft
Physcial Examination, Samples Taken (Skin, Sperm, Ovum), reproductive proceedures, fetus taken at a later abduction, Implanted or tagged, interaction with hybrids/ offspring.

Aliens Onboard Craft
One type to multiple types of aliens as well as hybrids are observed. Sometimes a hierarchy - tall leaders and shorter helper aliens performing task. Limited interaction with humans.

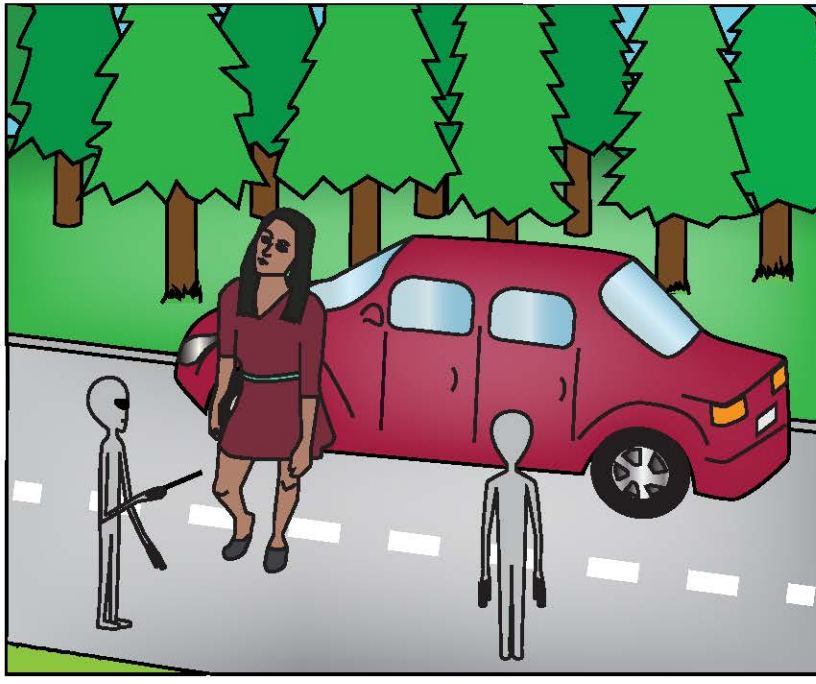
RETURN

Subject returned (natural habitat)
Forced amnesia, screen memory, going back down long winding hallway aboard craft, descent, floating toward ground, returned to place of abduction, regain consiousness, UFO sometimes seen departing.

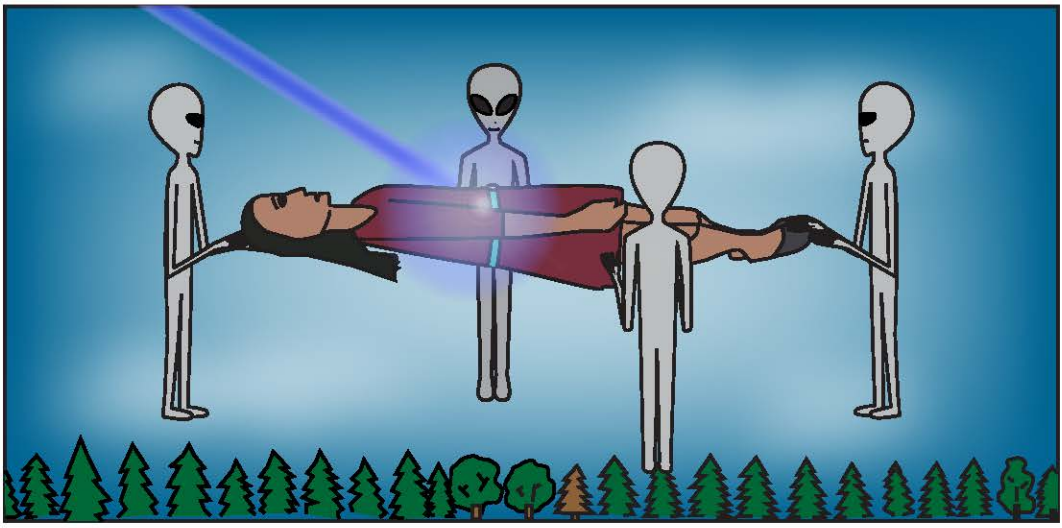
After Effects
Missing time, screen memory (the image of an owl or deer), oddly or sloppily dressed, feels violated or dirty, fatique, psychological disturbed, nightmares of abduction events, sickness, nose bleeds, bruising, scars, scoop marks.



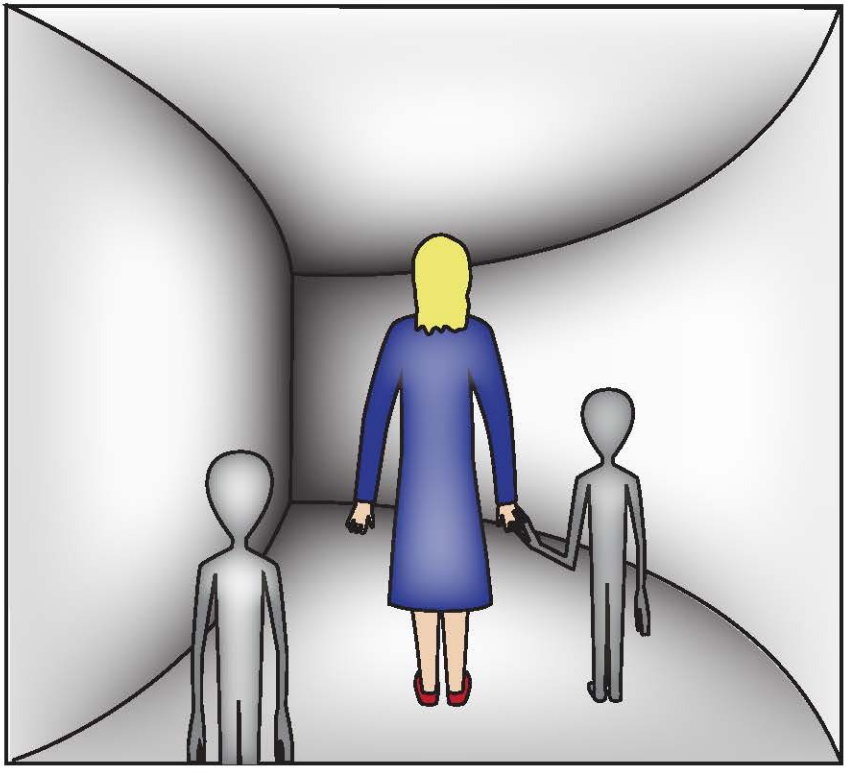
Stalking phase: UFO is observed pacing car (dusk hours).



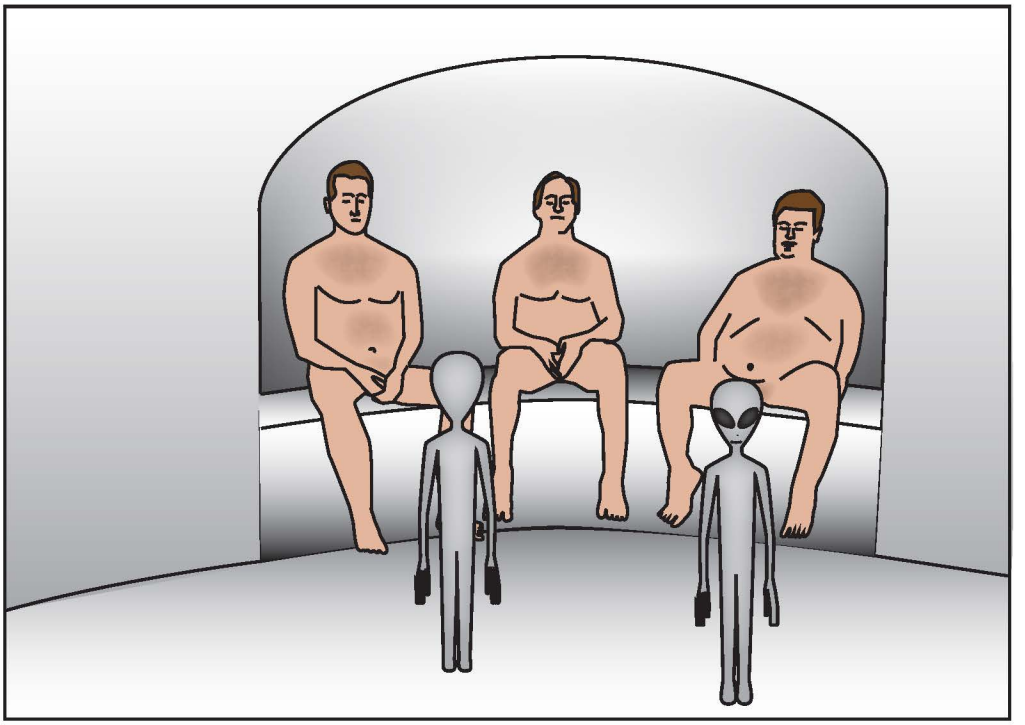
A person subliminally drives to a remote road or secluded area.



The person is either carried or floated to craft by group of aliens.
Sometimes a beam is observed.



Along winding hallway once entering the craft.



People are undressed and sit naked in a waiting room.

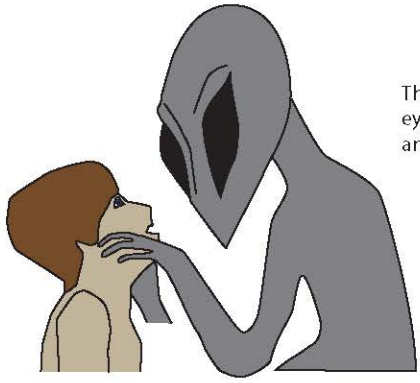
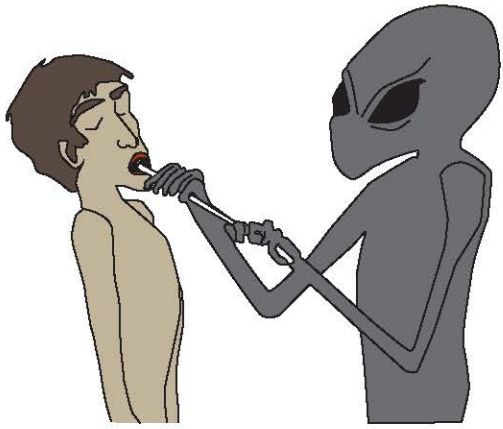
- Reproductive procedures (sperm or ovum extraction, fetus removed).

Alien Abduction Depitcions

The "mindscan" procedure.



The aliens gaze into abductee's eyes at a distance of only an inch or two.



Devices: For scanning (eye-like), apparatus placed over genitals.
Instruments: Long pointer tool (rod), needle, syringe, laparoscope.

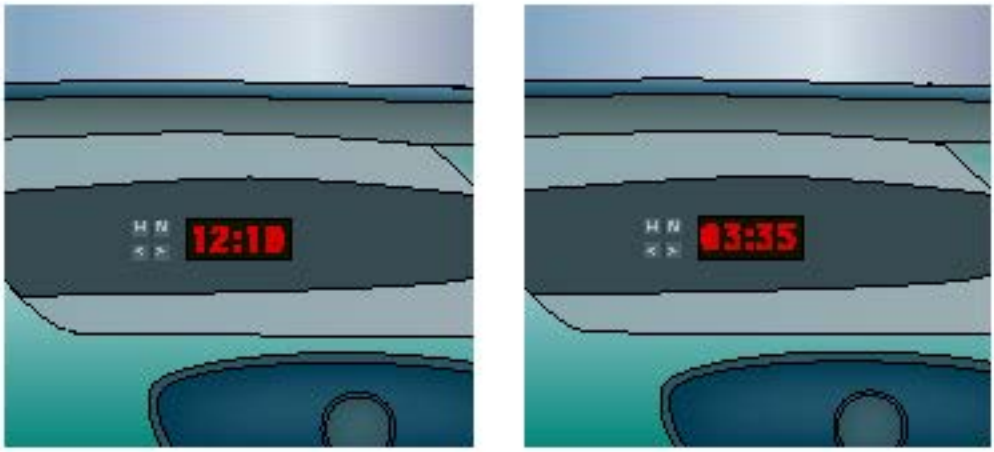
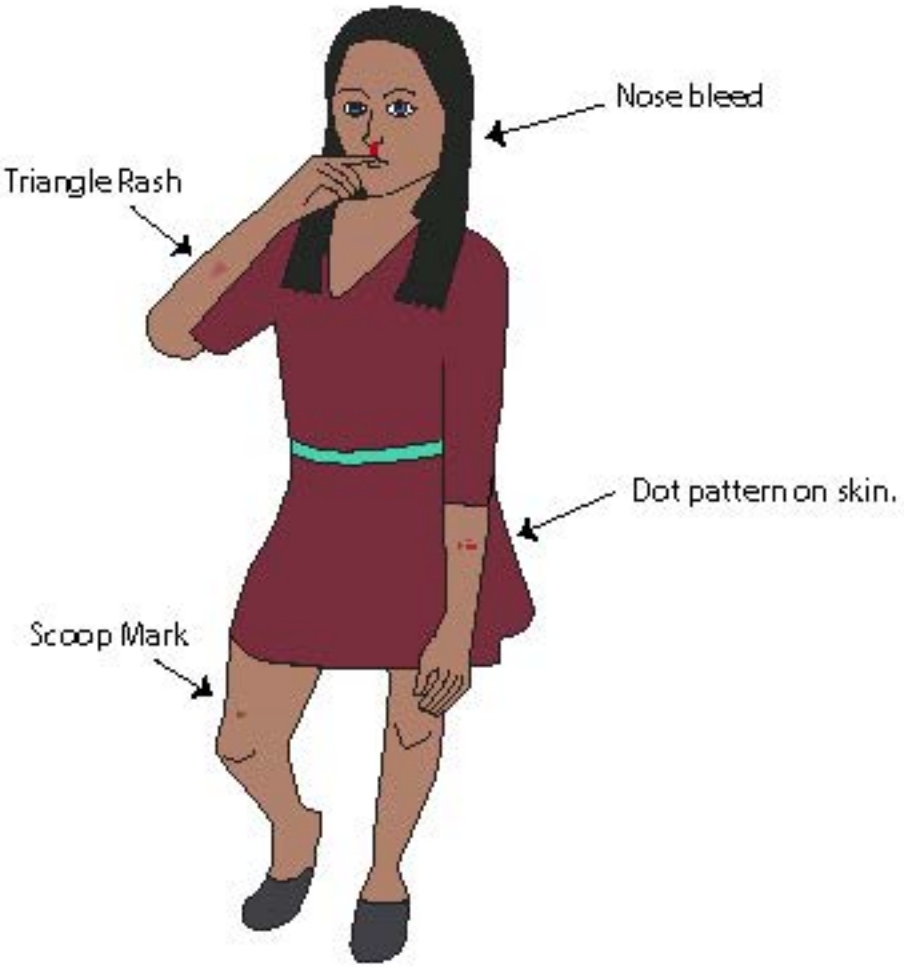
The person is returned to the place of abduction with messed up, out of place clothers.



The person observes a difference in the clock's time with little recollection of what happened.



Post-abduction physical effects.
